OUR SUPPLEMENT.

We furnish our readers this week a supplement, giving much valuable information in regard to the treatment of our most valuable domestic animals in sickness and their proper management in health. As our space is limited, of course we cannot give you all we would like to of the large amount of knowledge which has been obtained in this field of labor, but we have endeavored to give you the very "essence" in these few columns, treating only the most important subjects, and we think this, if preserved, will be of more benefit to many of our readers than two dollars would be if invested in some books we have seen upon this subject and content that we can't obtain.

Our supplement is two-fold. First, we wish to benefit our readers by giving them information through our columns which will be of value to them, and second, we hope to give you our paper, and we are firmly convinced that the many points of practical information which we have given in this supplement will be of much benefit to you. This sheet will be such information as you will appreciate, and be of lasting good to many. So come and get your copy, and if you are reading our paper so valuable to you that you will not only continue to subscribe for it yourself, but get your neighbors to send for it also.

THE HORSE.

The most valuable and useful of our domestic animals is the horse; and his great value should induce men to treat him with care and attention. His power to relieve him when sick; and if we cared nothing for the profit derived by taking good care of the horse, we might, in many instances, do so for the grand reason that he was created for our service, and was made unto us to serve us. Another excellent remedy, which is always at hand, is one heaping tablespoonful of salvia mixed with one pint of milk and given at one dose. It would be well to try the salvia first.

Always begin the treatment as soon as possible.

HEAVES — BROKEN WIND.

This disease is readily distinguished by nearly every farmer or person having much to do with horses.

It is especially to occur among farmers horses, owing to the prevailing habit among this class of feeding large quantities of hay to their stock.

Clover hay when fed in large quantities for a long time is quite certain to produce this disease.

Horses are never found in racing stables, where the horses are properly fed; consequently the quantity of grain should be increased.

Treatment — Turning out on natural pastures or feeding laxative food will relieve mild cases; but strong cases require much care in feeding and watering.

Hay should be fed at night, and then only a small quantity which is clean and free from clover and dust.

The quantity of grain should be increased and carrots, beets, potatoes, or turnips should be given in large quantities after the feed.

Treatment — In nearly all cases of lameness in the hind leg the seat of disease will be found to be in the hock-joint, although it is not always so, and it is difficult to locate the difficulty in the hip, simply because they cannot detect the swelling of the hock-joint, but in the case of a swelling cast there is not even a swelling or enlargement of the limb.

The illustrations show the actions of sick horses better than can be taught in any other way.

COLIC IN HORSES.

There are two forms of Colic — spasmodic and flatulent. The former is very frequent, and the symptoms are familiar to many horse owners. The engravings below show the positions assumed in different stages.

FIRST STAGE OF SPASMODIC COLIC.

Causes of Spasmodic Colic — Drinking cold water when in a heated condition, constipation, unwholesome food, undue quantity of food, etc.

Symptoms — The horse is suddenly attacked with pain, and shows signs of distress, shifting his position almost constantly, and manifesting a desire to lie down. But in a few moments he is again on his feet, and the horse is easy for a short time, when they return with increasing severity, until the horse cannot be moved.

A cold sweat generally breaks out over the body. The legs and ears remain at about the same temperature.

He longs ardently to his flanks, mostly at the right side, as if pointing out the seat of the disease, scrapes the ground with his forward foot, and will almost strike his belly with his hind foot.

SECOND STAGE OF SPASMODIC COLIC.

The horse braces at the flanks and kicks and rolls, and seems much excited, and sometimes acts as though he wanted to make water, which he cannot do on account of the urethra being closed.

PNEUMONIA (Lung Fever).

The first congestion of the lungs is always the first stage of this disease, which passes on to active inflammation of the sinuses of the lungs, while in bronchitis the air-passages are only closed.

Its cause is the want of air.

HOME MATTERS.

A meeting of the old council was held last evening, at which considerable coal was wasted, as well as some third-rate gas. Full report elsewhere.

Master Frank Parker left on Thursday morning for Andover College, Belleville, where he will pursue his studies in preparation for matriculation.

Missionary meeting in connection with the Church of England will be held at St. Thomas church, 8th and Rawson, Thursday evening 12th inst., and at St. John's church, Stirling, on Friday, 13th inst.

There was a good house at the tea-meeting at Wellman's on Tuesday night last (postponed from the 29th on account of the rain), the audience listening to spirited addresses. Messrs. McCall and Wood, Mr. Boggs occupied the platform. The singing by the choir and Mrs. Walker was highly appreciated. Net proceeds, $33.

Mr. McCall's address was received with surprise to learn of his arrival, and was all pleased. A number of them are making him a presentation and an address, as a token of their high esteem. The presentation will take place this (Friday) evening. Mr. McCall has received a position in the College Institute, at St. Mary's, as assistant to the principal by his friends that will be well deserved.

The Major Service of the 29th inst. expected. The Major Hasting company came to meet in this village on Friday night last. It was a fraud of the first water, and the members judiciously left town on Saturday without attempting to give a second performance. Their baggage was seized at the station for unpaid bills. The company did not put in an appearance.

Tuesday evening presented a scene of a very agreeable nature, and was all pleased. Mr. Wellman's church service, in the way of a service, at Rev. Mr. Godden's, bringing with them very unexpected and useful articles, and presented Mrs. G. with a sum of money. After enjoying a pleasant evening they left for their homes, and early in the morning of the next day made acceptable surprise to his horse and to the members of the Sth line by John and Samuel Turner.

The friends of the Methodist church of Canada, in the Egerton neighborhood, gave a free social on the evening of the 28th inst. There was a good turn out, crowding the school-house to its utmost capacity. A Christian tree stood upon one corner of the platform, laden with all manner of delicate flowers, the attention of the children very much. The singing by the school, led by Miss Weston, was excellent, and the teacher, was very good. Every part of the programme was well sustained, and reflected much credit upon the promoters, especially upon Mr. James Clark, Miss Weston, Mr. Paul Egerton, and the other moving spirits.

Parties wishing to subscribe for The Weekly Globe, Wines, Royal Canadian and The News-Advertiser, with the four premium described, for $3.75.

Thursday, the 15th ult., was a day not soon to be forgotten by a scattered crew of people on the 8th line of Rawdon, when we were deprived of the worship of the Almighty a handbreadth and a proportioned little church, a widow and an orphaned church-house to house. Little did we know a year ago it was proposed to have a church edifice, who one individual, offering $100 and an acre of land, the hall ringing, the church was now a well designed little edifice of frame and plaster, having extended church vestry, tower and spire attached. To the credit of comparatively a small people, it will be paid for partly by subscription, without the command and unprincipled efforts of the world and the like. It is a pure offering to the honor of God. By the same pock and means a committee of about seventy feet long has been added. There was a disappointment on the opening day by Archdeacon Jones and Bural Dean Baker not being able to fulfil their promises, severe afflictions having intervened, the Rev. T. Golden, and Rev. Mr. Harris, of Monroe, who what was not previously expected of them, the former preaching in the morning from Genesis 28:17, both giving short addresses in the afternoon. At each service there was a full church, and collections very good. There was a handsome church organ. Three choir boys, the last of the congregation. Three choir boys, the last of the congregation. The little edifice has already had its good effect, by inducing a neighboring settlement to do like-wise.

T. C. Goss, Supt., is an excellent carriage. In summing him up for The News-Advertiser he says: "I intend remaining in Chicago for the winter. I spent a few weeks in Dakota and the intervening states, and intended returning to Dakota early in the spring. Wishing you happy new year, and many returns of them I am, etc."

The pigeon-shooting match on Monday was rather a cold affair, but excited some interest. The contestants were Jas. Bedrock, D. Wootton and W. A. Mitchell against C. Mitchell, H. Wootton and G. Hulme; five birds each. The following is the score:

	First	Second
Bedrock	10011	10011
W. A. Mitchell	01111	11100
Total	11	12-2
C. Mitchell	01010	01010
Hulme	00000	00000

Leaving a victory of 22 to 19 for Mr. Bedrock's side. It will be seen, however, that it was a crack shot against amateurs.

School Board.

A special meeting of the school board was called on Wednesday evening last.

Members present: The Chairman, Drs. Bedrock, Williams, Smith, Mine, Finch and natural Wright.

Mr. Finch read the resignation of Mr. McQuarrie.

Moved by Mr. Gray, seconded by Mr. Mine, that the resignation be accepted. Carried.

Moved by Dr. Bedrock, seconded by Mr. Mine, that they advertise our insertion in the Globe and Mail of Saturday next for a teacher for the first division. At a salary of $500 a year. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned until this (Friday) evening.

Elections for 1882.

The counting of the ballots in the Stirling election showed the vote to stand as follows:

FOR REVER.

Faulkner, 57; Parker, 70. Majority for Faulkner, 8.

FOR COUNCILLORS.

W. S. Martin, 30; Dr. Demarest, 122; H. W. Smith, 10; D. Martin, 10; James McKeer, 62. Leaving the council for 1882 composed as follows: Reeve, Dr. Faulkner; Vice-reeve, Dr. Martin; Dr. Demarest; H. W. Smith and Dr. Parker.

After these had been duly declared elected by the returning officer, the candidates were called upon for addresses.

Jas. McKeer thanked those who supported him for their votes. He had received more votes than he expected, and was satisfied with some of the best votes of the village. Some of the best votes for a candidate they were confident of a return upon him. Some again, were confident of a return upon him for votes. He had stated at the nomination that he did not intend to go around and nominate all the bachelors, nor had he done. He remained at his shop and minded his own business, leaving people to vote as they pleased. He did not find that so many appreciated an independent spirit. He might offer his services again when the people were ready for them, but had no present need.

Had spent no money, but had no whiskey, and would not have their dirty work to do. He hoped those elected would prove good, and look well after the interests of the village.

Mr. Smith said this was the fourth time he had been elected, and he would like to serve them independent of favor to anybody.

David Martin thanked his supporters for their votes.

Mr. Martin thought the principal part of the council had been independent. If he did not serve them faithfully he would expect them to reward their votes accordingly next year.

Dr. Demarest would do his best to further the interests of the corporation.

Dr. Parker was disappointed as he expected a majority of about seven, though having a load of responsibility to carry. His friend, Faulkner, had a hard road to travel this year.

Faulkner was disappointed at not receiving ten majority instead of eight. He would try and improve on the past, and to serve them to the best of his ability. He did not know what he had done at the time of the election, and he would try to serve them independent of favor to anybody.

Faulkner was disappointed at not receiving ten majority instead of eight. He would try and improve on the past, and to serve them to the best of his ability. He did not know what he had done at the time of the election, and he would try to serve them independent of favor to anybody.

David Martin thanked his supporters for their votes.

Mr. Martin thought the principal part of the council had been independent. If he did not serve them faithfully he would expect them to reward their votes accordingly next year.

Dr. Demarest would do his best to further the interests of the corporation.

Dr. Parker was disappointed as he expected a majority of about seven, though having a load of responsibility to carry. His friend, Faulkner, had a hard road to travel this year.

A WOMAN'S WAR.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "DORA THORPE."

"Then you do not care to undertake the charge of pagus agnus?" she said.

"No; I am not so strong or so well as I have been; but I care not that never life or seems to grow less."

Lady Davenant was kindly interested.

"How can you help me? What tried any remedies? She grieved so little that this pain was the pain of an aching heart.

Presently, Margarita, remembering her ladyship's love of fashion and gaudy colors, took a walk in the garden, and then went to Coves, and gradually came round to Miss Cameron. Lady Davenant's face brightened as she saw her.

"I hope to make Miss Cameron's appearance very soon," said Lady Davenant.

"She did not understand the sudden loss of fiery crimson and saffron tints in the dress of the person she loved. It had nothing to do with what she was saying, and her ladyship continued.

"I have seen Miss Cameron; yet, but I am told she is very large," they say, "but her form must be very large."

"I have seen the wife of the wealthy heiress in England."

The little girl she dreamed that the fortune she now possessed ought to have belonged to the husband of the girl before her?

The next morning some of the other most noted residents, and then Miss Avenel, after seeing the children, took her leave. She did not return to the hotel, but went directly after the Officers' Ball.

In the meantime she must have a quiet as she could, and wait in pale silence.

The Bangalore Hotel was one of the best in Coves. Royalty had made it a resting-place in a class by itself, and the watchfulness of the last days there. Margarita had noticed the building; it was the first object of interest to her in Coves.

It was the second time she had come up with wistful eyes at the numerous windows.

Which of them belonged to the room where she had been so happy?

She had walked up and down before the hotel many times long enough to be inside to see the room where she had been so happy—the girl who she believed to have cruelly wronged her. But she found her last great desire to be a mere泡影.

She was not obliged to ask. Her ladyship continued.

"Until the evening of the ball, I shall be sure to see her there."

On the night of the ball, plainly dressed and in the beauty of her face hidden by a thick veil, she stood with the crowd gathered outside, and when the visitors began to drive off to the ball. She should have driven off to see Miss Cameron there. It would be easy to act to whom the different carriages belonged.

She was not obliged to ask. A plain unpretending brougham drove up to the door, and a maid one of the hangers-on at the hotel said—

"Miss Cameron is here. Please say she is in the drawing room. She has been waiting for you."

Margarita felt something like dread—a fear almost of what might meet her gaze, although she had been longing so intensely to see the girl whom she had never seen any one like.

Lord Ryleston's wife had seen the young heiress at last. She had looked on the fair face, and the dark hair, and the first glimpse had left her whole soul in a tumult of emotion. She threw back her veil, and looked at her with a look of infinite tenderness—there was such infinite grace, such infinite tenderness.

Why should she be, she thought, in a room like this? The room was so fair. The moon was shining on the floor, and she had walked down to the water's edge.

"How could he love me? She said, aloud; and her voice seemed to die away over the silvery waves. "How could he care for me when she is so fair?"

But she did not care. She looked with a smile on the stars in the sky.

"She is in the summer of satin, and glimmer of pearls." She saw a tall, lovely, queenly girl, superbly dressed, with jewels that shone like stars, and a golden head-dress with precious stones, and was delighted so lovely, so high bred, that she would have been in acknowledgement of her rival.

Margarita could not speak—the heating of her heart was almost lost enough to make my light eyes—my pale and disgruntled—I should have a better chance," she said to herself.

She did not know that the rich glowing beauty of her face, with its touch of Southern fire and passion, had charmed Miss Cameron.

When the hour arrived at which it was to call, the maid arrived to tell the hotel that the water had entered the apartment she had taken up in the super-bright apartment that was called Miss Cameron's sitting room. It was empty, and Margarita sat down to wait, with a heavy heart, for the maid to come back again, and take part in a play. When she had been there a few minutes, the door opened, and Miss Cameron entered.

The lovely young heiress, wherever she went, appeared to concentrate all the light and all the brightness in herself. The very sunbeams seemed to settle on her golden hair to linger in the violet eyes—to rest on her lips, and to make her smile like a rose in a rose-garden—one of her failings was a love of roses.

"Heaven has willed it!" Margarita was saying to herself. "I have a rose—so fair. Heaven has willed it!"

She could not speak, but the sound died away on the threshold.

"She will be almost sure to want something for her birthday," said Margarita to herself.

"She is more than that. I am not often satisfied with what I have, but I know that I am quite in love with her myself. She has promised to come and see me. Miss Avenel, did you not tell me that you had engaged for an engagement as companion?"

"Yes," replied Margarita. "Miss Avenel, who is a very accomplished French lady, has been living with Miss Cameron in her room, and a girl and a maid have been engaged with previous arrangement, and were delighted so lovely, so high bred, that she would have been in acknowledgement of her rival."

"I am a great believer in instinct—of mind and dexter," she continued.

"I do not know," replied Margarita. "It is very remarkable to have liked or disliked; and I only know that it is Lady Ryleston and not the poor governess whom they are patronizing."

Margarita spoke some kind words to her. Margarita's answer was a bow. Her impulse was to tell her all about it, but she had to tell her white hands tightly, and say, "Why have you taken my husband's money? I have controlled her."

"I am a great believer in instinct—of mind and dexter," she continued.

"I do not know," replied Margarita. "It is very remarkable to have liked or disliked; and I only know that it is Lady Ryleston and not the poor governess whom they are patronizing."

HOME MATTERS.

A meeting of the old council was held last evening, at which considerable coal oil was wasted, as well as some three-grade gas.

Full report elsewhere.

Master Frank Parker left on Thursday morning for Albert College, Belleville, where he will continue his studies in preparation for matriculation.

Missionary meetings in connection with the Church of England will be held at St. Thomas church, 8th line Rawdon, Thurs. day evening 12th inst., and at St. John's church, Stirling, on Friday, 13th inst.

There was a good house at the last meeting at Willman's on Tuesday night last (postponed from the 29th on account of rain), the audience listened to a speech on dress, from Rev. Mr. Jones, Stanley and Wood. Mr. Higle occupied the chair, the singing by the choir and Mrs. Walker was highly appreciated. Net proceeds, $33.

Mr. McQuarrie's scholars were much surprised to learn of his resignation, and not at all pleased. A number of them are making him a presentation and an address, as a token of their high esteem. The presentation will take place this (Friday) evening.

Mr. McQuarrie has received a position in the College Institute, at St. Mary's, as assistant. It is hoped by his friends that it will go well.

The Master of the 29th ult. ex-
-The Master Hentz Company came to great in this village on Friday night last (25th). It was a frost of the first water, and the members judiciously left town on Saturday without attempting to give a second performance. The baggage was seized at the station for unpaid bills. The company bailed Stirling for the Monday following, but did not put in an appearance.

Tuesday evening presented a scene of very great interest. The Master Hentz Company, of St. John's church, Stirling met in the way of a surprise at Rev. Mr. Godden's, bringing with them very unexpected and unusual articles, and presented Mrs. G. with a sum of money. After enjoying a pleasant evening they left for their home, but early in the morning of the next day again returned to surprise his horse home along in the shape of oats enough for the winter, collected on the 8th line by John and Samuel Tanner.

The friends of the Methodist church of Canada, in the Egerton neighborhood, gave the children of the Sabbath and day schools a free social on the evening of Tuesday last. There was a good turn out, crowding the school-house to its utmost capacity. A Christmas tree stood upon one corner of the platform, laden with all manner of delicacies, which attracted the attention of the children. The social was a success, and the school, led by Miss Worth, the day school teacher, was very good. Part of the programme was well sustained and reflected much credit upon the promoters, especially upon Mr. James Clark, Miss Worth, Mr. Paul Egerton and the other moving spirits. —Cox.

Thursday, the 15th ult., was a day not soon to be forgotten by a scattered church people on the 8th line of Rawdon, when, in the open air, for the worship of the Almighty, a Tabernacle was erected in a little church, a solemn and appropriate change from the school house. Less than a year ago it was proposed to have a church there, when one individual, offering $100 and an acre of land, set the ball rolling. Under the hand of a designing little editor, of frame, raised the Tabernacle, high, high, Baldwin ward, W. J. Dianion, John, S. Martin, John, S. Martin, Chas. J. Stirling, A. A. Farley, John, W. ## SOME MATTERS.

On the first of January several hundred subscriptions to the News-Advertiser became due. Very few of these are paid. Many more would be paid only for want of a little thoughtfulness on the part of subscribers. Will such please remember that we, as well as they, have engagements to meet, which fall due with unceasing regularity, and that their money is needed. It is only a matter of hundred cents to each one, but when that trifles is multiplied by the number of subscribers who still owe it, the whole would make enough to help through a pretty tight squeeze.

The Campbellford Herald is blowing about a barn in Crieff which cost $600. Mr. Chas. Rows, on the front of Sidney, recently had a barn burned which cost him $3,000.

The Trenton Courier had better read up a little on local geography. Under the head of "Marmora items" it gives several hints from Chipping's Rapids. Tupperville is not in Marmora, brother.

Meetings in behalf of the Baptist home will be held, D. V., as follows:—Habib Hill, Jan. 25; Nine Settlements, 26; Stirling, 27; Baptization to consist of Rev. A. Turnbull, of Belleville, and others.

Next Thursday is the occasion of the annual tea of the Stirling Methodist church. Dr. Jeffreys lecture will be as previously arranged, but the subject has been changed to "The world's progress in the nineteenth century." Tea at seven o'clock. Usual prices.

Campbell (M.E.) church, west of Stirling, had a M.E. service on Sabbath, 8th inst. Rev. R. D. Denike, of Campbellford, occupied the pulpit morning and evening, with great acceptability. On Monday evening following a bountiful repast was served by the ladies to a full house. It was pronounced a success. On Tuesday evening a social for the Sabbath-school was held, which was well patronized by old and young. Total proceeds, $55.

The Toronto World says that in the case of the Highfield at Toronto on Tuesday, the plaintiff, Mr. George, $1,500, before-arrangements of wages agreed to be paid him for services on the Grand Junction as civil engineer. He testifies that the defendant had charged him $1,500, and that he had been through an accident in his work for which he had been paid $500 by the township of Oshawa, that he did not owe him anything. The jury gave him a verdict of $450.

The annual meeting of the Rawdon agricultural society was held at Sleds' hotel on Thursday, 12th inst., when the following gentlemen were elected officers for the present year: President, W. V. Vandervoort; vice-president, Nathan Clark; directors, Jas. W. Williams, Jas. Cook, Jas. McCombs, Wm. Williams, Jas. Martin, Jas. Cook, John C. Wilson, Wm. S. Spry, John McPhee, Jas. The anniversary of the Bethel M. E. church, three miles north of Stirling, on the Marmora road, will be held next Sabbath. Rev. H. L. Allen, of the Bay of Quinte conference, will preach at 10:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on Monday following at 6:30 p.m. the ladies will have a social with a bountiful supper. After which addresses may be expected from Rev. Messrs. Curtis, R. B. Dimick, J. T. Dowling and J. M. Grey. Dr. Faulkner will occupy the chair. Admission as usual. All in aid of the building fund.

Kendall's "Treatise on the horse and his diseases" is a neatly got up book of about a hundred pages, the object of which is admirably described. It is well written, the language good and instructive, and the treatise throughout exhaustive; and with it aid a horse owner might often be able to save the life of a valuable horse by acquainting himself with the symptoms, finding out what is the matter, and thus putting him in a position to treat him accordingly. For the Toronto News, Dr. Macintosh, for 25c; or will be given as a premium to every subscriber, new or old, who pays one year in advance.

The public school opened finally Tuesday afternoon with its full staff of teachers, as follows: First department, Mr. Ventress; second, Miss Henry; third, W. L. Smith; fourth, Miss Smith, of Sid. ey. The latter young lady was made by members of the school committee to teach, as she desired to remain nearer home, she was at once engaged. Mr. Ventress has created a very favorable impression so far, as well as Miss Henry, and they will in all probability make excellent instructors for the important departments entrusted to their charge.

Have you paid your subscription to the News-Advertiser? There are still hundreds of subscribers who are one year, or many years, in arrears. We need money within the next thirty days, and must depend upon those who have not paid to save the necessity of closer attention to individual accounts, by handing in at least what is behind, if not paying for the current year.

The school board held a meeting last Friday night to open applications for the position of head master. Only sixteen applications were received, against thirty-four for the same position last summer. The choice fell upon Mr. Ventress, of Peterborough.

The secretary reported that neither Miss Clark nor Mr. Ventress had been received by the fourth department, both having been placed elsewhere. This left the board in somewhat of a quandary, as none of the other applicants were decided at all.

Finally Mr. Finch was instructed to apply to the inspector to have Miss Houston's permit renewed until such time as the board could get a teacher.

John Duggan, who committed the dastardly assault on Dr. Kincaid, M. P. P., on the 5th inst. was brought before his Honor Judge Duncanson at the Old Market House, and a warrant was issued for the crown, and the prisoner was undefended. The charge was one of committing an assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm. In response to his honor's question of guilty or not guilty, the prisoner pleaded guilty, and said that he did not mean to do any harm when he committed the assault, but that he was compelled to be imprisoned in the central prison, at Toronto, for a period of eighteen months at hard labor. —Peterboro Review.

Finally Mr. Finch was instructed to apply to the inspector to have Miss Houston's permit renewed until such time as the board could get a teacher.
